Fast-track your API Management Platform

With the growth of microservices and serverless architectures there has been an exponential growth of APIs within businesses. Managing this effectively at scale can be challenging while also complying with security and governance constraints. A centralised management platform helps consolidate the operational burden and risk, giving a common view of all your APIs.

What is it

The Servian API Management Accelerator is a proven fast-track to standardise and centralise the management and delivery of your APIs. Out of the box, our solution utilises native cloud services to integrate with existing business and operating practises in a safe and secure manner.

The solution provides a single entrypoint for all API access, simplifying the management and security of all API endpoints through policy and Infrastructure as Code. In addition, it allows for centralised observability allowing for easy integration to existing monitoring solutions like a SIEM.

What are the benefits

The Servian API Management Accelerator affords your developers the time to focus on product development rather than reinventing security, caching and rate-limiting features within their APIs. Additionally, having a central point for API documentation and onboarding helps simplify the adoption and consumption of your services.

Servian API Management Accelerator fast tracks the deployment and adoption of a centralised management approach, ready to onboard teams and applications. It provides training and mentoring to guarantee a successful adoption of the solution, within a known time and cost scope.
